Company history/background

Ridge is an established roofing and facade specialist active for private clients and property managers. The company specializes in roofing and facade work, insulation, and asbestos removal.

The company is primarily active in West Flanders and has strong local roots. Operational teams and the company's own fleet of machinery and vehicles depart daily from the central warehouse to various construction sites.

The client portfolio consists primarily of private clients and regular property managers with whom long-term relationships have been built. Thanks to its strong reputation and word-of-mouth advertising, the company enjoys a structurally full order book.

The team consists of approximately 15 employees, including a compact administrative core and four to five operational teams, each managed by experienced team leaders. Several teams function largely autonomously, ensuring efficient operational functioning and strong execution capacity.
